The Basics for Leaders

Two miles.

That's how far Jesus had to walk to reach his friend Lazarus, who was dying in Bethany. But Jesus put off the trip for four days, and rather than come heal Lazarus, Jesus let his friend die.

Picture Lazarus lingering in bed, knowing if Jesus would just come, he'd be healed. Lazarus waited, day after painful day, until at last he could hold on no longer. He died-literally died-as in dead-and-buried died.

We don't know much about Lazarus beyond that he was the brother of Mary and Martha and a friend of Jesus. And that following his death, Lazarus walked out of his tomb once Jesus called him back to life.

Was the day Lazarus died a bad day? It must have felt that way to Lazarus and to his sisters. But four days later, that pain behind them, Lazarus became the reason many Jews came to believe in Jesus.

Lazarus became a living testimony to the truth that Jesus is powerful. And we can do the same!

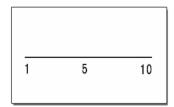

OPENING ACTIVITY—OPTION 1

HOWZITGOIN'

Time: about 5 minutes, depending on attendance

Supplies: pencils, prepared poster

Before kids arrive, draw a line on a poster. Write a 1 on the left end of the line, a 10 on the right, and a 5 in the middle. As kids arrive, ask them to pencil in their initials on the line.

Say: If this past week was so awful you wish you'd slept through it, place your initials by the 1. If it was a great week you wish you could repeat, put your initials by the 10. Place your initials anywhere on the line that shows how you feel about this past week—except exactly on the 5. Because there's no such thing as a week that's exactly half good and half bad!

After kids have signed in, give them 30 seconds each to explain why they placed their initials where they did. Be sure to include your own initials and explain your placement on the line. Kids will begin to express themselves more over time, and hearing their stories will help you adapt this lesson to make it relevant to your kids' lives.

OPENING ACTIVITY—OPTION 2

EVERYBODY UP!

Time: about 10 minutes

Supplies: straight-backed chairs

Have children form pairs. Ask the person in each pair whose first name starts with the letter earliest in the alphabet to sit in a chair. (Help younger kids with this.)

Say: On the count of three, I'd like you to stand up. Ready? One ... two ... three. Children will have an easy time rising from the chair. If you have a child who's physically unable to rise from a chair, ask that child to be your helper and give the countdowns.

After they stand, say: Describe to your partner a time you think it'd be hard to stand up. Maybe it would be on a roller coaster or when there's a bully saying he'll beat you up.

After several minutes for discussion, say: You're about to discover another time you can't stand up. It's when your partner has one finger on your forehead.

Ask the same child in each pair who was just seated to sit in the chair again, this time with arms folded across his or her chest and legs stretched straight out with heels on the floor. The other child in each pair will place a finger firmly against the seated partner's forehead.

Again give a one ... two ... three countdown. The seated partner won't be able to rise from the seat! Have pairs change places so everyone can take a turn in each role.

Ask partners to discuss:

- · How did it feel to be helpless to rise again?
- · How is that like or unlike what it's like to die and be buried?

Say: You'd think that once you're dead and buried, that's it. You're down and staying down. But for Lazarus death wasn't the end of the story because of Jesus's power. Lazarus rose again! Let's explore what happened.

Bad Days Game

BOWLINGBASKETSOFTBALL TOSS

Time: 5 minutes or more, as desired

Supplies: none

Ask children to join you sitting in a circle. Tell children you hold an imaginary ball—a basketball. Dribble the ball several times to help kids visualize it.

Say: When someone tosses the ball to you, you'll change something about it before tossing it along to the next person. For instance, I could make the basketball much larger. Pretend to stretch the ball until it's huge. Or I could change the weight. Shrink the ball, poke three "holes" in it and say: Now it's a heavy bowling ball!

Change the ball however you like, but you have to change it somehow before tossing it along, and you can only hold it for seven seconds. Let's see how long we can keep this going!

Toss the imaginary ball to someone in the circle. Encourage creativity. When you've finished, take the ball, shrink it to a marble, and toss it into a pocket. As a group discuss:

- How would this ability make a cool superpower? In what ways could you use it to help and serve others?
- Would you consider someone with a shape-shifting ability powerful? Why or why not?

Say: Today we'll talk about someone who's really powerful. And who proved it in a way that people have talked about for a long time!

Bad Days Bible Story

POINT OF VIEW

Time: about 15 minutes

Supplies: Bible, roll of paper towels, facial tissues, pencils

Assign these roles to your children: Lazarus, Jesus, disciples, Martha. If you have just a few children, assign a role to yourself. If necessary, don't assign the Martha role.

Give the child in the role of Lazarus enough paper towels (two or three sheets) to wrap around his or her arm. Give the child in the role of Jesus a facial tissue to hold, because Jesus is sad. Give children in the roles of disciples pencils to hold as knives—they're afraid of being attacked. (Caution kids not to stab anyone with the pencils!)

Hand the child in the role of Martha three paper towels to drape over his or her head as a scarf

After children are ready, say: I'm going to share an incredible event found in the Bible. As I read, think about how your character experiences the event. What does your character feel? Think? Discover? Use your items to help express yourselves.

Read aloud John 11:1–16, 38–44. When you've finished, ask children to discuss the following questions from their characters' points of view:

AGE-ALERT TIPS

Alert #1: For older kids, add this debriefing question: If you were Lazarus, how would you go about asking for your money back for your funeral?

Alert #2: Have younger kids play the role of Martha using paper towel scarves. (Do not have younger kids act out roles with sharp pencils.)

- · How did your character feel? Why?
- · What did your character think of Jesus? Why?
- What did your character learn from this experience? How might this experience change your character's life?

Say: Can anything be more powerful than raising someone from death? And can anyone be more powerful than Jesus? Lazarus and his sisters learned in an amazing way how powerful Jesus is, and Jesus teaches us about his power in amazing ways too!

CLOSING PRAYER

BODY PRAYER

Time: about 8 minutes

Supplies: none

Ask children to lie down on the floor, on their backs. Dim the lights.

Say: I'm going to lead us in prayer by suggesting things we can pray about. With each suggestion, I'll ask you to take a different posture.

Lying on backs: Please lie on your backs. (pause) The Bible says without Jesus we're dead in our sins. Consider how you'd feel if you didn't have Jesus in your life. Silently tell God. After a few moments, continue.

Kneeling: Please kneel. (pause) When meeting a king, people sometimes kneel in respect. Tell Jesus why you respect him—why he's powerful and worthy of being called a king. After a few moments, continue.

Standing: Now please stand. (pause) Jesus said people who love him aren't just servants—they're friends. Thank Jesus for his friendship and love. After a few moments, continue.

Standing with arms raised: Now please raise your arms. (pause) Jesus is powerful! Praise Jesus for all he is and all he's done! After a few moments, close with everyone saying "amen."

EXTRA-TIME ACTIVITY—OPTION 1

HEADSTONES

Time: about 10 minutes Supplies: paper, pencils, tape Before kids arrive, make a paper headstone for Lazarus. Use the words "Lazarus-friend of Jesus, beloved brother to Mary and Martha."

Give each child a sheet of paper and a pencil. Ask children to think of a famous person who has died and to write or draw a tombstone for that person. Explain that tombstones usually include the person's name and a line or two about what made the person loved or famous. (Invite older kids to help younger kids spell the words for their tombstones.)

After several minutes have kids tape the headstones to the wall. At the same time, tape up the headstone you wrote earlier. Ask children to explain why they picked the person they picked.

When everyone has had a turn to share, point to Lazarus's headstone. Say: Here's why Lazarus is so special. Tear down the headstone. He didn't stay dead! Jesus raised him, and he walked out of his grave. That's something none of the other people you've named here did!

EXTRA-TIME ACTIVITY—OPTION 2

PAPER FOLD

Time: about 5 minutes

Supplies: various kinds of paper (including newspaper, cardboard, envelope, gift wrap, $1 bill)

Let each child select a piece of paper. Say: Seems simple enough to fold a piece of paper. I'll bet you're not powerful enough to fold your paper in half eight times. Give it a try!

After kids attempt to fold their papers in half eight times, ask:

- Why do you think you couldn't do this simple task?
- How powerful do you think you are compared to Jesus?
 Explain.

Say: One way Jesus shows his power is through miracles. I'm sure he could even fold paper eight times! But the way I most like how he shows his power is this: he loves us!

EXTRA-TIME ACTIVITY—OPTION 3

INQUIRING MINDS WANT TO KNOW

Time: 5 minutes Supplies: none

Gather kids in a circle. Ask: What could Jesus do that would convince you beyond any doubt he's alive and powerfully working in your world?
